

DSV Sydney facility opening Customers and partners go behind the scenes

On August 19th customers and partners of DSV Air & Sea had a great opportunity to have a look behind the scenes of the business of an international freight forwarding company. During the Opening of the new Sydney facility they gained insights in DSV's worldwide business and got a glimpse of the 10 metre high racks where goods from all over the world are waiting for their pick up or delivery.

Due to the Danish background of DSV, the theme of the opening was a 'Danish Winter Night'. For this occasion the 4,300 m<sup>2</sup> warehouse was transformed and decorated to a cosy wine and dine area. The guests were introduced to Danish delicacies with original hot Gløgg-Wine, Nordic food and Danish beer. The evening was officially celebrated with Rikke Gamborg, Deputy Consul General of the Danish Consulate General, and DSV's Managing Director Danny Ayoub cutting the cake, which had the shape of a DSV truck.

Three winners of the evening's company quiz were able to take home some special Danish hampers of delicacies. One of the stumbling blocks in the quiz was, without doubt, the question about the full meaning of the abbreviation DSV – even DSV staff struggled with the correct pronunciation: De Sammensluttede Vognmænd (The United Haulers).

The opening was a complete success and everyone enjoyed the good food, live music and the great atmosphere in the uniquely styled warehouse. DSV would like to thank its customers and partners for celebrating the new facility together.

New requirements and growing business has made it necessary for the Sydney headquarters and NSW branch office of DSV Air & Sea Australia to move into new premises. The new office is located in the Portside Distribution Centre next to Port Botany and Sydney Airport. The advantages include a 4,300 m<sup>2</sup> warehouse, a bright and open architecture and, most importantly, an improved logistics infrastructure.

Having operated in the Australian market since 2005, DSV was formed in Denmark in 1976 and is today one of the most actively traded shares on the Copenhagen Stock Exchange. DSV is operating in more than 60 countries all over the world. With its 21,200 employees, the company provides a wide selection of transport and logistics services and solutions.
