

Executive Women Series @ Baker McKenzie - 3 October 2018

Anne McGirr

Vice President, Head of Human Resources APAC

Capgemini

Anne McGirr is responsible for Human Resources for Capgemini in APAC. Anne has a strong passion for developing people.

Anne has worked for Capgemini for over 19 years. In her current APAC HR role, she is responsible for the Human Resources strategy and people initiatives for APAC. She is accountable for HR initiatives that are employee-oriented and focused on enhancing the performance culture.

Anne was previously the Head of HR for Capgemini Australia. She was a member of the Australia Leadership team which saw significant growth in Australia. The headcount increased from 250 to over 2000 people. During her time in Australia, Anne launched the graduate program which is now run in every country in APAC. Anne and her team were also involved in a number of successful people transitions and acquisitions.

Prior to moving into HR, Anne worked for Capgemini Australia in the consulting practice for over eight years. She was a Director within Transformation Consulting and led the People and Organisational Change team. Anne has experience in organisational change, HR transformation and IT projects. She has worked with some of Capgemini's major clients across multiple industries in Sydney, Melbourne and London.
