

Headline: Anavo Returns to Polyglot Group Brand, Bringing Renewable Energy Expertise and Global Expansion Solutions Together.

We're pleased to share news from one of our valued members, Polyglot Group. Anavo, a global recruitment agency specialising in renewable energy, environment, and sustainability, has returned under the Polyglot Group brand. This strategic move simplifies communication and strengthens Polyglot Group's ability to deliver integrated, end-to-end solutions for businesses expanding internationally.

Polyglot Group has been helping companies enter new markets for over 30 years. By unifying under one brand, they make it easier for businesses to access a full suite of services from corporate services, HR and payroll to recruitment, compliance, and Employer of Record (EOR), all under one trusted name.

Corinne Bot, CEO of Polyglot Group, shared "Anavo has always been part of Polyglot Group. Bringing everything under one name makes it easier for clients and partners to access our full range of services. Our commitment to the renewable energy sector remains strong, and now we offer even more expertise across multiple industries to help businesses thrive globally."

What this means for your business:

- A simpler, more seamless experience under one brand
- The same dedicated team, now supported by additional resources and expertise
- Access to integrated solutions for global expansion
